FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

North Truro, MA- Fields Publishing announces the release of “Nantucket: A Photographic Essay,” by Charles Fields, a composite portrait of the island’s enchanting seasonality, with an introduction by Fields and captions by Elizabeth C. Bergman.

Fields reveals an island imbued with both the spirit of its vibrant history and the enduring natural beauty that has captivated travelers for centuries. 90 masterful photographs reflect a reverence for its architecture, as well as for its quiet mystique- sprawling beaches and endless horizons, often shroud in fog.

Summer photographs depict Nantucket’s bustling crowds, bursting with energy and life, while others portray a stark contrast, “in stillness, too, I’ve found the loveliness of the island’s seasons,” Fields writes. It is this diligent and respectful sensibility that affords stunning ocean vistas, quiet moments with the island’s flora and fauna, and serene aerial portraits of the crescent-shaped land.

A traveler and photographer for over 35 years, Fields has captured the beauty of many locales, most recently in “Cape Cod and the National Seashore: A Photographic Essay,” “Martha’s Vineyard: A Photographic Essay,” and “Vietnam Journeys,” all to be released this year.
